

LIBRARY NEWS

The public library Summer Reading Challenge this year is 'The Big Friendly Read'. It's a great way to keep reading, have fun collecting fantastic themed Roald Dahl cards, sharing and enjoying books both fiction and non-fiction. I hope many of you will join up and may see you at Nailsea library.

We will be celebrating the centenary of Roald Dahl's birth 13th September with various competitions for each year group. A little bit of Dahl reading this summer might be helpful as well as hugely enjoyable. Keeping with this theme if you are able to bring in a picture of you reading this summer (even better if it's a Dahl book) then I would be happy to add them to our display.

If you find that you don't know what to read next or just want some new reading book ideas I suggest you look at northsomersetteachersbookawards.com and lovereading4kids both great sites.

A reminder that the library will be open on a Tuesday after school in September. Please feel free to pop in with your children. I would love to see you and am only too happy to help with book recommends.

Happy reading.

Mrs Watts
